

Executive Board Meeting
8 December 1987

Attending: Kiger, Marshall, Reynolds, Martsching, Nichols, Grube,
Rudisill, Yøke, Abell

The travelling workshops were discussed. It was decided to await the report on the subject from Mr. Eberhard before proceeding.

At the next meeting, after refreshments, Jean Grube will install the new officers. The Xmas auction will follow, Ted Gump in charge. It was decided that any left-over cookies would be sold for $1.00/doz.

The Antique Show will be on March 12 and 13, 1988 (set-up on the 11th). This will coincide ("interfere") with the Genealogical Society meeting. Discussion as to whether our archival display was worth the effort. Margaret Abell said she would look up last year's figures, and would consult with Danell Knight. The deadline for reservations is Jan. 11.

Becky Kiger read an invitation from the Portland Forum for "Sleuthing the Burials II" to be held Feb. 26 and 27 at Caldwell's Mortuary. This is a cemetery workshop.

Margaret Abell suggested that the Society purchase a cash box, especially for the Xmas auction use.

Auditing of the books was discussed. Lee Rudisill has an accountant who could act as an outside consultant and help with bookkeeping systems. Two members should be appointed before outside consultations.

Mabelle Martsching raised the possibility of issuing a Quarterly, and showed one from Dick Milligan (Albany).

Becky Kiger discussed goals; she also showed various flyers and catalogs.

The meeting ended with Becky Kiger thanking all for assistance during the past year.
